The Cannondale was an American-made quad that had all of the latest high-tech features incorporated into its design. This is what it looked like after ATK took over Cannondale's inventory. When it comes to fast street bikes, dirt bikes, ATVs and UTVs, the United States has always been the country to have sold the most machines.

The smallest manufacturer in the test had its hands full trying to compete with the best the multi-billion-dollar conglomerates put out, but the Cannibal finished right up there. How, you ask? The company cheated. It simply didn't use the same rulebook when it built its machines. The Cannibal started with the only aluminum frame, the only fuel injection and Cannondale's own unique powerplant ...
